NOW LONDON HAS ITS MOB.

No town, no city, is free from uproar at this time. The world seems to be undoing a period of upset. In London, on Thursday, a mob of medical students broke up an antislavery meeting which was to have been addressed by Wm. E. Johnson, an American prohibition worker. The Associated Press gives this account of what happened:

"Johnson was dragged from a platform from which he was speaking today, severely beaten and paraded through two miles of crowded West End streets on a plank. His assailants, for the most part, were medical students, and against them, at times, he put up a strenuous fight, receiving a badly damaged eye and other injuries, so that, finally, owing to his weakened physical condition, he was obliged to submit to the indignity. Eventually Johnson was rescued by the police, who, during the early part of the march, simply kept the crowd moving. He was rushed to Bow street station, where his injuries were dressed, and he was then able to go home."

The average Londoner has a high sense of justice, but today no one can vouch for any city, and no one can offer assurances against the spirit of lawlessness.

DEFAMING UTAH.

At a meeting in Pittsburg on Wednesday, Apostle James E. Talmage and Wesley E. King were hissed and hooted by an assemblage known as the Third World Christian Citizenship conference. The Utah men were present to refute attacks made on the people of this state by Mrs. Lulu Shephard, who is recognized as a bitter enemy of Mormonism.

Wesley E. King, who is not a Mormon, in reporting the discourtesy, said:

"They hissed me down at the meeting because I said that, although I lived in New York, in Chicago and elsewhere, I had never known people so temperate, so moral, so honest, and so easy to deal with as the Mormons. I had said that, you understand, as a non-Mormon. I have no affiliation with the Mormon church. I oppose Mormons every day in my business. Nothing gives Mormonism greater spread than meetings such as you had this afternoon in Pittsburg. Statements most preposterous and absurd were made against the Mormons. We try to reach them by legislation and education, and we have weakened the Mormon church. Naturally, we have no desire that our work be spoiled by such attacks as were made here by people who make a living by fighting Mormonism."

The conference, after mistreating the Utah men, adopted the following:

That the national congress, in both branches, be urged to refuse a seat to any man who has taken upon himself an obligation of allegiance to the Mormon prophets.

That the attorney general of the United States be urged to compel Mormon prophets to account for the property conferred in trust by the government of the United States.

That the postmaster general be urged to exclude from the mails Mormon church books or doctrine which teach polygamy and that the Mormon church government is superior to all other governments.

That all ministers of evangelical churches everywhere be advised of the danger of Mormonism and its subtle invasions of Christian congregations, so that its emissaries may not gain entry into Christian fraternities.

That the proper departments of foreign governments where Mormonism is conducting active missionary work be advised of its dangerous and blasphemous character, and that they be asked to exclude its missionaries from their countries as long as Mormonism teaches crime and disloyalty to the civil government.

Finally, the committee believes that Mormonism is as definite in its purposes as was the militarism of Germany, and that it is as dangerous now to the world as militarism was thirty years ago.

Utah is progressing and there is a better feeling among all classes of the people than ever before. Why should outsiders be so deeply concerned over the welfare of this state when at home there is contentment?

Ogden and other cities in Utah are beginning to feel the good effect of capital from distant points seeking investment, and all elements of the population are opposed to a campaign which has for its object the creating of distrust and the driving out of those who are coming here to develop new industries.

Utah has suffered sufficiently from adverse agitation and it is about time that a solid front be presented to repel the agitators.

AMERICANISM AND PROFITEERING.

In a vigorous defense of Americanism and a strong denunciation of radicalism, C. C. Richards, formerly of this city, but now assistant United States attorney general, makes plain the position of the government in the treatment of outbreaks against law and order. In an interview in Spokane, Mr. Richards said:

"The department of justice, headed by Attorney General Palmer, is determined that Russian tactics shall not prevail in this country, and to that end the whole force of the government is directed. We do not want alien agitators in this country and we will deport 200, 500, 1000 or as many as may be necessary. There is no room for them here."

"I am pleased to note the court decision today with reference to the miners' strike. The attorney general is equally determined in this matter that the government is not to be flouted and overthrown. After the strike is settled so that the country and the people are out of danger of hardship and suffering, I expect to see President Wilson, as soon as his health permits, renew his efforts to bring capital and labor together in a conference that will produce an understanding, as to profit sharing or some other equitable and satisfactory arrangement. The government and the attorney general are not against the miners as such, but are acting to prevent paralysis of industry and the consequent want and misery attendant upon it in addition to the suffering from cold due to lack of fuel."

Mr. Richards also touched upon the high cost of living and indicated a resolve to eliminate profiteering. He said:

"In the matter of the high cost of living, Mr. Palmer has at last secured from congress legislation which will permit active prosecution of profiteers. Judge C. B. Ames is in charge of this work as well as the anti-trust department."

"A story will illustrate his attitude in regard to what may be deemed profiteering. One of his assistants came to him last week and said: "Judge, I have been asked a question that puzzles me. A man owning a shoe store bought some shoes at $4 a pair. The price has since been raised to $6 wholesale. Is he to be permitted to charge a profit on the $6 price or must he add his profit to what he actually paid, $4?"

"Most emphatically, he can only charge a profit on what the goods cost him," returned the judge. "He will not be allowed to profit on capital which he has not invested. When he has to pay $6 for the shoes will be time enough to charge a profit on $6."

Legion Chairman

Permanent chairmen of committees for the American Legion were designated at a meeting held last evening at the University club rooms. Chairmen were appointed to head a committee on athletics, Clarence Douglas being chosen for this position. Robert Majors was chosen head of the entertainment and Lester Hinchcliff in charge of the music committee.

Arrangements were made for the initial appearance of American Legion members desirous of becoming members of the Legion band and a session will be held next Thursday evening at the University club. General plans for a series of sporting events and entertainments during the winter months were also arranged but definite action was deferred until future meetings.

Affairs of the Armistice day celebration were reviewed, financial reports showing that the legion will add considerably to its treasury because of the success of the event.

Thin, Nervous People Need Bitro-Phosphate

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wrecks; thus conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weak, tired people regain energy and vigor; thinness and angularity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; dull eyes become bright, and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health.

CAUTION—Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so much so, that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks. Those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh, should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.—Advertisement.

Linker Case in Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE, Nov. 14. — The state having rested, a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal was offered by S. A. King, counsel for the defendant, in trial in the criminal division of the third district court of Thomas J. Linker, charged with the murder of Joseph Briggs, an aged Fairview farmer, who was shot on West Second South street early on the morning of January 13. Arguments on the motion had not been completed when court adjourned last evening.

Charlie Thomas, a negro, testified yesterday to having overheard certain conversation between Linker and his wife, Maud Linker, in the Macedonia rooming house shortly after the murder. He said that, through the partition between his room and one next to it he heard Mrs. Linker ask, "Why did you do it?" Again, he said, a policeman came to the place and entering the next room asked for the landlady, being told by Linker that she was upstairs with a sick woman. The witness testified that upon Mrs. Linker's return to the room Linker told her the policeman had said that there had just been a killing down the street. The witness denied that the policeman had so remarked when he was in the room with Linker. The witness said that, after asking Linker why he had done it, Mrs. Linker told him to get undressed and go to bed, this being before the visit of the policeman to the room.

C. H. Briggs, son of the murdered man, told of having identified the body of his father at the undertaking rooms.

Testimony given in the preliminary hearing by a negro, "Yellowstone Jack," was read into the record. It told of his having seen Linker and William H. Brooks, who is jointly charged with Linker and Mrs. Linker with the murder, in front of the Macedonia rooming house about 1 o'clock on the morning of the killing. The murder is said to have been committed at about 12:30 o'clock. Briggs being shot when he resisted two hold-ups. According to the state's evidence, Briggs had displayed a roll of money shortly before while at the Macedonia rooming house and the theory of the state is that Linker and Brooks, being informed by Mrs. Linker of the roll, had attempted the robbery. Briggs being shot by one of them when he resisted.
